Directions Read the story. Find the definition of the underlined words in the glossary.

Ray was lost in the woods. It was night, and it was cold. Ray imagined what it would be like to be warm at home. He was cold and miserable. He started to shiver. He was hungry too. Then he heard the bushes rustle. He looked up and saw a coyote. The coyote looked fierce, but he spoke kindly. "I will make you a fire," the coyote said.

The coyote brought wood and made a fire. Ray and the coyote sat warming themselves by the fire. Then the coyote said, "I will take you home." The coyote took a firebrand and led Ray out of the woods. Soon they were near Ray's house. "Goodbye," the coyote said. "Thank you very much," Ray said. Then he watched the coyote disappear.
