

The Best Game

I think board games are the best family activity. Playing a board game with family or friends is my favorite thing to do on a rainy day. However, my sister doesn't agree. She likes playing charades with a group. To her, board games are boring. ●

Board games include everything you need right in the box. There is nothing to think up or to make. The rules are printed out. That's the best part! There shouldn't be any arguments among players. Hundreds of board games are sold every year. The people who buy them can't all be wrong.

On the other hand, my sister favors ● charades. She says it's a creative game. Players must think of books, movies, or songs that will stump the other team. Players use their imagination and always have a great time.

Here you have two kinds of games, two people, and two ideas. Which game is best? You decide.

Skill This paragraph includes some opinions. What are they? What clue words do you see?

Strategy Here is a clue that signals a compare and contrast text structure. What is it?