

Name _____

Plot and Theme

- The plot of a story is made up of the important things that happen. The plot can be divided into 3 parts—beginning, middle, and end.
- The theme of a story is the big idea. It is an idea that the author would like you to learn. The theme can be stated in one sentence.

Directions The theme of Smart Dog is that it takes time and effort to train a dog. Circle the events below that relate to the theme. Then decide if each happened in the beginning, middle, or end of the story. Write your answer on the line.

- _____ Toby's ears perked up. He knew that he was Toby and that Charlie was calling him.
- _____ Eileen shrugged. "That's all right. I'm glad he's home, even if he is just a silly dog."
- _____ "If you can teach him a trick in one week, I'll set the table and wash and dry the dishes every night."
- _____ Toby ran through the opening of the gate and into the front yard.
- _____ Toby flopped down lazily and rolled over to have his stomach scratched.
- _____ Charlie's friend Nina came to visit the next day. She had an idea about how to train Toby.
- _____ Toby heard his name. He turned around and trotted straight over to Charlie.
- _____ The next day, Charlie rode his bike to the library and looked for books about dog training.
- _____ The week was almost over and Toby hadn't learned a trick yet.
- _____ Charlie pulled Toby from the garden and frantically tried to push the dirt back into place so that Mom wouldn't notice.