

Snapshot Response to “My Rows and Piles of Coins”
by Tololwa M. Mollel

1. How would you describe Saruni? Use describing words that tell about people.

Possible response: Saruni is a determined boy who tries to help his parents.

2. What problem did Saruni have at first? How was his problem resolved?

Saruni wanted to buy a bicycle, but he didn't have enough money. At the end of the story, his father gave him his own bicycle as a reward for Saruni's help.

3. Next Saruni wants to buy a cart to pull behind his bike. What do you think he will do to get it? Make a list.

Possible response: I think Saruni will carry many bundles to market on his bike. He will earn money for his work, and he will save his money. He will ask his father to help build a cart. Finally he will get a cart to pull behind his bike.